GLOSSARY

Admin/privilege service accounts

Admin/privileged accounts refer to user accounts that have elevated privileges.

Admin accounts can manage and maintain a system or network.

Privileged accounts are used for automated processes or by applications that require elevated privileges to perform a task.

AI/automated rules-based enforcement

AI/automated rules-based enforcement is a mechanism designed to enforce predefined rules within security systems. An automated rules-based system is actively monitoring and enforcing certain rules or conditions to respond to a security threat.

Application whitelisting

Application whitelisting allows only authorised and approved applications to run on a system or network.

Content control software

Content-control software, commonly referred to as an Internet filter, is software that restricts or controls the content a user is able to access and/or download via the Internet.

Domain

A domain name (often called a domain) is an easy-to-remember name that's associated with a physical IP address on the Internet. It's the unique name that appears after the @ symbol in email addresses, and after www. in web addresses. Examples of domain names include google.com and wikipedia.org.

Encryption at rest refers to encrypting data when it is stored on a device or storage system.

Encryption in transit refers to encrypting data as it travels across a network or between systems.

End of Life technology (EOL)

EOL refers to a stage in the life cycle of a technology product where it is no longer developed, maintained or supported by the manufacturer.

Endpoint Detection and Response (EDR)

EDR technology focuses on the detection, investigation, and mitigation of suspicious activities on endpoints including computers, servers and other devices within a network. EDR can identify anomalies and identify potential security threats.

Endpoint Protection Platform (EPP)

EPP is designed to defend endpoints such as laptops, servers and other devices connected to a network from various forms of malicious activities including malware, ransomware, and other cyber threats.

Intrusion Detection Systems (IDS) and Intrusion Prevention System (IPS)

IDS and IPS are technologies designed to detect and respond to malicious activities or security incidents within a computer network. IDS is used to monitor a network or system and identify patterns or behaviours that may indicate unauthorised access. IPS goes a step further than IDS by automatically blocking detected threats.

Immutable technology

Immutable technology is a type of technology or system where data or code cannot be altered or modified once it is created or deployed.

Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA)

MFA is a mechanism that requires individuals to provide more than one form of identification to access an account or system. The additional forms of identification can include one-time codes or biometrics.

Next Generation Firewall (NGFW)

NGFW combines traditional firewall capabilities with advanced functionalities such as application awareness, intrusion prevention, user identity awareness and advanced threat detection.

Payment Card Industry (PCI) assessment

PCI assessment is a process designed to evaluate a companies handling of credit card transactions to ensure a company complies with the PCI security standards.

Security Information and Event Management (SIEM)

A SIEM system provides real time analysis of logs that are gathered from various sources such as servers and security applications. A SIEM system will analyse the logs and identify potential security incidents.

Security patch management process

It is important that you read and understand the following.

Claims made notice

Section B – Loss to Others of this policy is issued on a 'claims made and notified' basis. This means that Section B – loss to others responds to:

- a. claims first made against you during the policy period and notified to us during the policy period, provided that you were not aware at any time prior to the commencement of the policy of circumstances which would have put a reasonable person in your position on notice that a claim may be made against him/her; and:
- b. facts that you may decide to notify are those which might give rise to a claim against you even if a claim has not yet been made against you. Such notification must be given as soon as reasonably practicable after you become aware of the facts and prior to the expiry of the policy period. If you give written notification of facts the policy will respond even though a claim arising from those facts is not made against you until after the policy has expired. When the policy period expires, no new notification of facts can be made to us on the expired policy for a cyber event first discovered or identified by you during the policy period.

Your duty of disclosure

When you apply for insurance you have a legal duty of disclosure. This means you or anyone applying on your behalf must tell us everything you know (or could be reasonably expected to know) that might affect our decision when deciding:

- a. to accept your insurance, and/or
- b. the cost or terms of the insurance, including the excess.
- c. In particular, you should tell us anything which may increase the chance of a claim under this policy, or the amount of a claim under this policy.

You also have this duty every time your insurance renews and when you make any changes to it. If you or anyone on your behalf breaches this duty of disclosure, we may treat this policy as being of no effect and to have never existed.

Please ask us if you are not sure whether you need to tell us about something.
